

WILL DEVELOP GOLD CLAIMS ON GT. SLAVE

Aurous Gold Mining Company Is Shipping Machinery to Little Caribou Island

OIL LOCATIONS

Properties on North Shore of the Lake to Be Worked as Adjunct of Gold Property

Mr. H. Wilson, of the Aurora Gold Mining Company, was here yesterday to go north with the opening of the auriferous gold claims on Little Slave Lake in 1918. He afterwards reported to the Aurora company with headquarters at the town of Wainwright, where the exploration and development work has been continued. Several auriferous veins in mineral explorations along the Great Slave Lake. Last season he had been engaged in development work on the auriferous veins which had been discovered in 1918. February 2, he received by mail, wireless from the party stating that there had been no ice on the lake since January 1, and that the ice on the lake was only about one-half owing to the number of the winter.

Rock Drilling Machinery

Mr. Wilson will take another party north to do the navigation and will also take rock drilling machinery to Little Slave Lake. The property, the machinery will be taken to the port, then by team across the portage to Caribou Island. The company owns a gas boat which will bring the machinery to the shore of the Northern Trading company.

Mr. Wilson has recently purchased the plant and machinery now being used at the mine, thirty miles below McMurray. This machinery will be taken to the portage by snow and thence to the northern end of the lake, the north shore of the Great Slave Lake, adjacent to where the Imperial Oil Company has its refinery. The company have 6,000 acres of oil land located in the area.

Fifteen Miles Quarts

Mr. Wilson expects that the present gold claim will be completed this season, and that they will be fully operating in the fall. A new sixty-ton stamp mill will be taken in the fall.

The quartz is fine milling. The quartz body is very large. It will be reduced to a size of 100 mesh and a run from $11 to $12 a ton in gold.

The oil runs will be worked as an adjunct of the gold property, the machinery, Wendy Point, is now being installed.

Mr. Wilson expects that the gold claim will be completed this season, and that they will be fully operating in the fall. A new sixty-ton stamp mill will be taken in the fall.

Would Provide Transportation

Mr. Wilson expects that the gold claim will not be profitably exported, with the cost of shipping.

But if the oil occurs in volume proportions to the surface indications, it will be profitably provided.

But, of course, if the gold does not occur in volume, it can be exported without serious costs, as conditions are.

Mr. Wilson expects that the passengers and freight to McMurray, the Northern Trading company, the Laramie-Lindmark company, or Colin Dunn's company, will be shipped via Flin Flon, 300 miles. Teams will go from Flin Flon to the portage to Smith. There the Aurora company's gas boat or the steamer of the Northern Trading company ready mentioned will give transportation to the portage and back again.

Resolution and Windy Point are the regular ports of call. The portage distance from Resolution and Windy Point about thirty miles from Flin Flon.

Victims Slowly Roasted To Death in Train Wreck Near Delhi, India

BOMBAY, April 29.—Extremely distressing and pathetic scenes were enacted in the train wreck on the Oudeh and Rohilkhand railway east of Delhi on Saturday, when one hundred and fifty passengers were either killed or burned to death. Only a few of the large number of women and children on the train escaped, burning, while there were only three survivors of the Hindustani passenger train.

As a result of the collision a gas installation caught fire and the flames spread rapidly. The uninjured Indians fled terror-stricken to the jungle. Those remaining watched helplessly while the screaming victims slowly roasted to death. The medical arms aboard the trains were totally inadequate to give necessary assistance. Several British aboard escaped injury.

Population of 25,000 in That Section of the City Within Five Years Practically Certain with Reasonable Development—Residential and Educational Centre of Much Importance Before Joining with Edmonton in 1912—Early History of Strathcona Was One of Municipal Ambition and Progress

(By G. H. S.)

Let's do a little supposing! Suppose the high level and its smaller bridge brothers collapsed some night. Suppose the modernized Edmonton was isolated for a time like it used to be in the day of the early nineties when running ice in the river prevented any form of transportation to and from the north and south banks except by row-boats. What would be happening on the North Side?

The first and primary effect of the catastrophe would be the practical demolition of business in more than two-thirds of its offices and premises of the city. So many places would be "boss-less," "clerk-less" and even "office-boy-less" that the personnel manning the business arena along Jasper and through the wholesale and industrial sections would resemble nothing so much as the roll-call of an army.

Division after a general advance. After all this the fact that so many merchants, managers, doctors, lawyers, teachers and the general rank and file choose to live on the South Side. Obviously there must be a reason for the choice.

Approximately sixteen thousand people are qualified by residence to determine the reason. It's a good place to live!

Unique Civic Advantages

The spirit of amalgamation and its practical effect did not destroy the unique advantages which the South Side inherited in its infancy as South Edmonton, the town and the city of Strathcona. In the present-day experience the foremost of these advantages was its proximity to the old trading post of Edmonton, with which it has become joined in the municipal bonds of progress and development.

Then it must be admitted that the South Side was an ideal location for a city, or any part of a city. When John Walter and other old settlers of the district came to form Edmonton half a century ago the natural attractiveness of the valley and its high and low open stretches was naturally not to be resisted. Primarily this accounts for the reputation which Strathcona won as a "home" city before amalgamation, and which resulted in the South Side drawing a population increase of over 10,000 new citizens since the day of incorporation in 1912.

Four Thousand Homes

Today the South Side boasts 4,000 homes. This is nearly one-third of the dwelling directory of Edmonton. Credit the South Side with one-third of the total population of the city, and it is evident that the ratio of residential possession is extremely high across the valley, because a large proportion of the people on the South Side own their own homes which is strictly in accordance with the principles of real estate practice but paradoxical to not wholly Elysian when the municipal tax-rate is struck.

The war pre-emptorily called a halt in the progress of the South Side, as it did in other parts of the city and of course delayed expansion in general throughout Alberta. Edmonton's record of enlistment was an example to Canada, and the facts might even further and say that the South Side's recruiting figures were an example to all Edmonton. Possibly the population of the South Side was considerably decreased ers along the brow of the Saskatchewan, those holding land in what has become the heart of the South Side being Jos. McDonald, who still lives on the south bank with a residence overlooking the valley near the high level bridge, and Larry Garneau, who now makes his home at St. Paul de Metis and whose white-walled log-house is standing along the Saskatchewan river which bears his name.

The late Thos. Anderson, who came West as land agent for the government, acquired the land lying to the west of the old Donald farm, the three being eventually incorporated in the town of Strathcona. It was from Mr. Anderson that the Calgary-Edmonton railway purchased their large land holdings in the south side, and which have since been developed on a pretentious scale as terminal facilities for their entire system in this part of the West.

Early Industries

One of the earliest industries was the boat and sailing business of John Walker, who came in 1880, and who later operated ferries across the river. A few years later the McKernan brothers came in from the telegraph post at Hay Lake, and Robert came in from the north and the land there became known as the McKernan estate, in the southwest of the city. James McKernan homesteaded in the east end, his farm comprising the present-day subdivision of Highland Park. Other farms in the east end and the village on the bank grew until it was a fairly pretentious little post when the railway built north from Calgary. It was in 1890, the same year that the town and the revised South Edmonton, that the first roller flour-mill in this section of the province was established on the south bank by Robert Ritchie, one of the pioneer citizens and business men of the place, who still resides in Saskatoon.

The man who, which the C.P.R. erected on the South Side fifteen years ago was one of the best of his kind in the West at that time. Not far from the C.P.R. station is the lumber mill and sawmill of the Canadian Northern, which the Canadian Northern entered Strathcona with their right of way just prior to amalgamation and started service on the Calgary line five years ago. The lumber mill and sawmill on the South Side is directly involved with sixteen incoming and outgoing passenger trains daily.

A Town as Strathcona

Near the close of the nineteenth century the South Side village entered the status of a town with the name Strathcona. The Doniphan family was the first mayor, the majority of the first members of the council board still residing on the South Side. And subsequent councils laid the foundations of the city whose charter passed the legislature on March 15, 1907.

By this time Strathcona was recognized as one of the outstanding centres of the young province. A waterworks system had been begun in the year of Alberta autonomy 1905. The first premier of the province was one of the pioneer citizens of Strathcona — Hon. A. C. Rutherford. In its earliest stages was progressive in the way of school facilities and of church establishment, the maintenance of law and order, being one of the first of the villages and townships that Mr. Gainer still takes an important part. Mr. Gainer also owned a quarter section of land in the old townsite, this being subdivided as Parkdale when the city extended in that direction.

Railway Centre

The Canadian Pacific railway terminal was from the first an important factor in the industrial growth of the South Side. Needless to say, the importance of these terminals has been vastly increased during the last few years, the present round-hour service being a great boon to the facilities in keeping. The land which was acquired close to the centre of the city is sufficient to enable the company to take care of their business in the northern part of the province for some time to come. The yards are becoming covered with miles and miles of storage and switch tracks; these tracks holding at the present time hundreds of freight cars which will be required later in the year.

The one station which the C.P.R. erected on the South Side fifteen years ago was one of the best of its kind in the West at that time. A. C. Rutherford. In its earliest stages was progressive in the way of school facilities and of church establishment, the maintenance of law and order, being one of the first of the villages and townships that Mr. Gainer still takes an important part. Mr. Gainer also owned a quarter section of land in the old townsite, this being subdivided as Parkdale when the city extended in that direction.

Railway Centre

Strathcona not only brought a very strong array of industries into the larger city, but added a big share to the municipal improvements and public welfare. It was a public-spirited city at all times. Today the South Side is served with over forty miles of water and about the same mileage of sewer mains. Over ten miles of good pavements and several times that many of sidewalks. Nearly all these improvements were in effect or being constructed at the time of amalgamation. Many fine churches and schools, there were also the number being added to in a preventative manner, especially in the matter of public schools.

Since amalgamation progress has been even more rapid than before. Hundreds of fine dwellings have sprung up in the last ten years, and the Garneau district being almost completely built up in one year. The university has developed apace; the Strathcona hospital, one of the finest in Canada, was in service before the opening of the new hospital in the "B" building, the former "B" building near the high level steel bridge across that valley, which was erected by the Strathcona council in 1910, and which later carried the street railway to the east end.

It is scarcely necessary to speak at length of Strathcona's thriving five years as a separate entity, the facts are known to practically everyone.

The years of natural rivalry with the larger and older centre of Edmonton, then become the capital city of the province. However, leading public men and citizens of both cities have always been anxious to see that the two would accede with the joining of forces. Only the river separated the two places and this was to be spanned by the long promised high level bridge of the C.P.R., which actually began in 1910.

The opening of the street railway to the South Side in 1908, and the commencement of the big bridge were the two outstanding factors that made amalgamation possible, and definite steps were taken by the appointment of special committees from each city and the holding of the first conference in Strathcona on June 15, 1911. On September 26 of the same year the raters of the two cities, the original "low level" at the foot of McDowell street carrying the first railway track to enter Edmonton proper, as well as the street railway line which first crossed to Strathcona, and which subsequently joined in importance to the high level by leading directly to the well populated east end of old Strathcona, and to the big industrial plant which the Edmonton City Dairy established on the South Side years ago.

The Parks Policy

Famous for its sound municipal spirit, which was best exemplified by the generous decision to join with Edmonton, Strathcona not only carried out enterprises in every direction, but saw to it that the parks in the vicinity of the rivers, Light and power, were well provided with paths along the water ways. All these parks are in the vicinity of 2300.

Naturally the South Side as a subject cannot be left without reference to the reputation it has as a great centre of gardening, particularly of vegetables. Of vegetables it probably grows a crop in excess of strictly home demand during the season, and its market garden advantages are well known, and are to be exhibited by any other suburban area in the West. Naturally also such land extends directly into some of the finest farming areas in the province, the famous Clover Bar, West of Edmonton, and the valley of the Milk River district being the cream of early agricultural settlement and development in the Edmonton district twenty-five years ago.

Public Library Building

Another example of progress on the South Side is the modern public library which occupies a place on the old municipal square alongside "Main" street, which also accommodates the old civic office building, the fine new library, and the post office.

This library building, which is the only one which Edmonton possesses as such, by the way, was erected by the city of Strathcona in 1911 and is one of the attractions of the entire city in its situation.

The "extraordinary price concession" on South Side ears and the heavy auto traffic across the big bridge is evidence of the lure which that section of the city possesses as a residential centre, even if the streetcar centre is still the action of the city fathers.

Three other bridges of modern type but lower elevation connect the North and South Sides, the original "low level" at the foot of McDowell street carrying the first railway track to enter Edmonton proper, as well as the street railway line which first crossed to Strathcona, and which subsequently joined in importance to the high level by leading directly to the well populated east end of old Strathcona, and to the big industrial plant which the Edmonton City Dairy established on the South Side years ago.

Automatic telephone facilities were in existence through the Alberta telephone system on the South Side when the two cities joined, the provincial interest having subsequently purchased by the city. Today there are over 1545 telephones in service on the streets of the river.

Light and power are also well provided with paths along the water ways. All these parks are in the vicinity of 2300.

INVESTIGATION ON PENSIONS IS NEARING A CLOSE

OTTAWA, April 29.—(Canadian Press)—The pension investigation into the possible pension committee's conduct in 1913, and which has remained in abeyance since, is nearing a close. There is a move on foot among a number of pensioners to have the pending matter disposed of before taking up the re-establishment of the investigating committee.

HOW A YOUNG GIRL SUFFERED

And Was Restored to Health By Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—Told Her Mother.

BROOKLYN, N.Y.—"I cannot grapple with the thought of what I have done to my poor baby," says Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, "but I am so glad she is better again." Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a mother to her baby, and she has had to stay home from school ever since the time of the birth. She has suffered from backache and has lost weight and has lost appetite. For three months she was unable to eat, and got no better, always complaining about her condition. She didn't know what to do, so I didn't know what to do either. She was worried about your wonderful medicine so I made up this concoction for her. She has taken five bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and she is feeling much better now. She has no back and side aching. She has gained weight and is eating again. She recommends Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to all mothers here and there. 1115 Broadway, New York City, 1115 Broadway, New York, N.Y.

TAKE SALTS TO FLUSH KIDNEYS

Eat less meat if you feel Bæk-enacy or Bladder troubles you.
—Salts is fine for Kidneys

Most forms uric acid which excites and overworks the kidneys in their efforts to get rid of it. Regular eaters of meat must flush the kidneys occasionally. You must remove the acid from the kidneys; removing all the acids, waste and impurities from the body, especially in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or neck headache, dizziness, etc., will be relieved. When urine is coated and when the weather is bad you must take salts. When the urine is cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get clogged, when you are not able to urinate, you must take salts.

To relieve those irritating aches and flush off the body's uric acids get rid of the acid by taking salts from any pharmacy; take a tablet spoonful in a glass of water before breakfast, and again before bed. Urine will then feel fine and bladder troubles will be relieved. Urine salt is made from the seeds of grapes and hemp seeds, combined with lithia and bark. It is a safe, simple, clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys and a diuretic. It is a safe, inexpensive, harmless and makes delightful, agreeable Lithia-water drinks which can be taken at any time. You can take now and then, thus avoiding serious kidney and bladder disease.

Footlights

PANTAGES ROAD
SHOW COMING
NEXT WEEK

Once a year Alexander Pantages sends a "road show," out over his big circuit. The show is different from the others offered by the great English headliner and an added attraction the last few years has been the addition of a "footlight" show. In 1920 road show failed to come and was replaced by a "footlight" show which was immediately cancelled, and replaced by a new one. This new show is scheduled for next week and will be known as "The Pantages Footlight Show." It is to be presented at the Edmonton Pantages, and that is the name of the show. Mr. Howard Record, is due for a few more wounds, a refined and capable vocalist on the vaudeville stage, and a good dancer. The former member of the Chicago Grand Opera company. She sings a solo, and wears a gorgeous gown, which is a combination of song, dance and music.

MONARCHS—Not the least of the wonders of the melodrama which will be presented at the Pantages on Saturday night, "The Superman."

and dialog, in which "people" a blood-thirsty, heartless, bent on killing, Anna thinks of leaving him, but the honest man, the city traveler with the patient and kind heart, wins her back to him as a wife. But she learns in time that he is a good man, and becomes very effective.

Another headline attraction is "The Great Revue," a girl act with all the usual ingredients and a sure-fire hit. Pauline, the blonde pianist-comedian offers some lively patter on the topics while the Marvin Brothers, gymnasts of exceptional agility, perform some of the most difficult acts of Pearl White's serial. Together with "Topics of the Day and For Week," Special music will be provided by the Pantages Concert orchestra.

RANGERS DEFEAT
DUNBARTON, WIN
SCOTTISH LEAGUE

There seems to be no denying the potency of Mutt and Jeff. Their popularity is greater than ever, firm, and the fact is more than ever, firm. In reality, the reception accorded the brand new Gus Hill comedy in the cartoon section of the newspaper, the cartoon illustrations have been acclaimed this year, and "Mutt and Jeff's Dream" which is underlined in the next column, is to be seen three days starting next Monday, with a regular Wednesday night show. The comedy is resoundingly well-constructed, produced and expertly costumed, produced and directed by Mr. Hill, the "Long and short" is as Mutt and Jeff's dream of renewing and settling their good old ways, and the entertainment is unequalled. The music is sold to the public, and the comic songs, while the chorus, comprising twenty unusually pretty girls, who have come in for exceptional praise and success, are well worth the price.
